The case was brought to the attention of Supt. Wilkin, of the Children's Society by a prominent business man, who called upon him about three weeks ago. Mr. Wilkin was told that St. Hale had enticed children to his rooms and snowed them indecent pictures. Mr. Wilkin referred the case to Mr. Comstock, who procured a warrant from Justice Walsh for St. Hale's arrest. The warrant was given to Detective-Sergt. John F. Burns. Burns posted himself in front of St. Hale's house and waited. His presence in the vicinity aroused considerable gossip, and in a couple of days everybody in the vicinity knew that the police were after one of their number. St. Hale evidently discovered the fact and disap-dentily discovered the fact and disappeared.

To-day Detective Burns entered St. Hale's apartments and after searching bureau drawers, closets and trunks, discovered an old copy of the Decameron of Boccaccio and a sealed letter. It was a mild version of that celebrated work, and most of the objectionable matter had been carefully eliminated by the editor.

All the parsies connected with the matter refuse to talk about the affair. They refuse to tell the names of the children who can testify against St. Hale, or the location of the mission where St. Hale officiated.

It is said that he moved to the Atlantic avenue flat in August. He said he wanted a quiet home. It is reported that he is quite prominently identified in Sunday-school work. While engaged in religious work, it is said, he was known under another name.

The neighbors say that St. Hale was always well dressed, and acted like a gentleman. They expressed doubt this morning that the police had been correctly informed. None of the other occupants of the house had noticed anything suspicious in his actions.
